

SKYline

Open to all, Design Circle challenges you to recreate an 'Iconic Welsh Landscape'. It can be a realistic or abstract representation...it's really up to you!

Full Rules

Your chosen skyline of an Iconic Welsh Landscape must be submitted as a single, continuous hand-drawn line on landscape A3 white or tracing paper. Your line should terminate on the left and right sides of the page 1/3 of the way up from the bottom.

You can trace, sketch, plan, computer model, pencil out or otherwise pre-plan your submission, but your actual submission must be hand-drawn with ink on paper. Any pre-planning lines or marks should be completely removed before submission. Your ink line must be drawn without removing the pen's nib from start to finish: you must not fold the paper or otherwise interrupt the single continuous line. Lines can cross at any angle but should not over-write each other by tracking one line 'on top' of another for any perceivable distance.

Your A3 'Skyline' should be marked in pencil on the reverse with your choice of title for the image, your name and email address.

Your submitted original A3 'skyline' should be accompanied by a "JPEG" format picture of the matching view. Photographs can be submitted on memory stick or emailed to the registration email address. Photographs should be your copyright or otherwise suitable for public display. The photograph is for reference and to form part of the exhibition, but does not form part of the judging.

Whilst we will endeavour to, we cannot guarantee that the submitted original A3 'skyline' or any digital memory device will be returned, so we advise keeping a copy.

In entering the competition, you agree to grant Design Circle RSAW South, the RSAW and the RIBA a royalty free licence in perpetuity to use your 'skyline' and associated photograph for any purpose provided you are suitably credited.

The judges' decision is final. The right to not award any winner if no suitable submission can be agreed is reserved. Judges will be appointed by Design Circle RSAW South.

Members of the Design Circle Executive (Chair, Treasurer, Vice Chair & Secretary) are allowed to enter but not eligible to win. All other parties, other than judges, are eligible to enter and win.
